Subject: NY Times reporter at Pavillion meeting tomorrow

Heads up: Dan Frosh, a reporter for the NY Times based in Colorado may attend tomorrow's meeting in Pavillion.

I traded emails with Dan and gave him the basic statement about current collaboration with State, Tribes, April sampling with USGS, and the ongoing public comment period and pending independent review process.

Ayn will use similar messages about the draft report and next steps if she is questioned tomorrow night.

Reporter has also spoken with USGS/ Dave Osman, who indicates he provided general facts about USGS activity in sampling wells.

One question that we need an appropriate message for-- based on recent Casper Star-Trib article: Why has EPA declined request to contribute funding for cisterns?
